RESEARCH INTERESTS

- Study of stable water isotope (HDO and H₂¹⁸O) circulation
- Data assimilation, particularly for stable water isotopes with the ensemble Kalman filter
- Reconstruction of past climate using isotopic proxies
- Dynamical downscaling and development of a Regional Earth System Model
- Study on terrestrial hydrologic cycles and development of river and land surface models

REMARKS ON RESEARCH

My current research is focused on various interdisciplinary areas including global and regional meteorology, land surface and atmospheric hydrology, and paleoclimatology, all of which are bridged by natural isotopic tracers. The main thrust of my work is toward better understanding of the Earth climate system, and this is explored both by utilizing additional information obtained from isotopic records and by developing models that simulate the observed processes. Moreover, I would emphasize that, by being an intensive climate system modeler with great knowledge of isotopic tracers myself, I am fully capable of bridging the divide between retrospective and forward modeling efforts in paleo- and current/future climate studies.
